As I wen	nt a-walking	g one evenin	g fair he said f	fair maid w	hy do you ro	am tis 7 long years since he left this land he said fair maid you must dry your eyes she said I'll never forsake my dear one half of the ring did young william show it being	the summe	r, to take th	e air by yonder leaf And all alone a ring he took off from his lily white hand some other young man you will surely find although we've been parted this many a year she ran distracted in grief and wo

I spied a	maiden an	d a sailor bo	oth she heav	ved a sigh a	nd the tears	did roll one half	of the ring	is still here	with me for love	turns aside	and soon g	rows colo	k gentle w	vas he, not	a rake like y	ou
